
These are grammar components and AST structures. The analyzer checks their form and types; it does not execute branches or loops.